Energy Advisory Board discusses oil and gas noise issues

The public is invited to an educational program at the monthly Energy Advisory Board meeting March 3 at the Rifle Branch Library. Beginning at 5:30 p.m. dinner and social time is provided for all attendees. Noise from oil and gas activities can be a significant nuisance issue. Donald W. Behrens, president of Behrens and Associates Environmental Noise Control, will discuss nuisance noise issues and how computer modeling is used to predict noise levels and design noise mitigation systems. Noise mitigation systems may include sound walls, acoustical barriers, silencers and/or enclosures. Key considerations include safe worker access and line of site to equipment and maintenance of air quality and worker noise exposure level.
